Job Description

The Clinical Psychology Department at Antioch University New England (AUNE) invites applications at the Assistant or Associate Professor level to join the faculty of our APA- Accredited Doctor of Psychology (PsyD) Program in Clinical Psychology.

The successful candidate will have completed an APA-accredited doctoral program in clinical or counseling psychology, and be licensed or license-eligible in NH. We seek candidates who will contribute to AUNE's training, service, and research traditions. We particularly invite candidates who will enhance the racial, ethnic, nationality, or cultural diversity of our program community.

We seek a candidate with expertise in quantitative or qualitative research methods. Area of clinical/scholarly specialty is open; the following areas will receive priority consideration:

neuropsychological/biological underpinnings of mental/behavioral health, geropsychology, child/family psychology, and/or social determinants of mental/behavioral health.

Faculty are expected to demonstrate achievement in the areas of student engagement, scholarly activity, and service, including administrative functions within the department and university. We seek candidates with the vision and potential to become future program leaders. This is a full-time, 12-month position, with academic rank and paid vacation. Opportunities for up to one day per week of professional practice are also available.

Educational and Experiential Requirements and Qualifications

AUNE's PsyD program has been accredited by APA since 1986. We follow (indeed, were instrumental in developing) the Practitioner-Scholar model of training as described by the National Council of Schools and Programs of Professional Psychology. We have 12 full-time faculty and seek approximately two dozen students per cohort. Our students complete four years of full-time study, practica, internship, and a dissertation. The Clinical Psychology department includes three training and service centers: the Psychological Services Center, Center for Behavioral Health Innovation, and the Antioch Multicultural Center for Research and Practice. Our graduates fulfill multiple professional roles as reflective practitioners, integrating our core program values of relationship, evidence-based practice, and social justice and diversity.

Antioch University New England, one of five regional campuses, uses a distinctive graduate education pedagogy that mixes rigor with experiential learning and social engagement. AUNE is located in beautiful Keene, NH, two hours from Boston.

Antioch University is a singularly accredited, multi-campus, coast-to-coast institution of higher learning that provides learner-centered education to empower students with the knowledge and skills to lead meaningful lives and to advance social, economic, and environmental justice.
