Humanities. The school offers undergraduate programs that allow students to gain rigorous interdisciplinary training and opportunities to complement their research activities, build networks/professional references, and advance their career aspirations. Overall, the School stands for intellectual freedom, curiosity, and academic integrity.

Position Description

We are inviting applications from highly research-active candidates for full-time Assistant/Associate and Professor positions in Economics. While we welcome applicants from any area of Microeconomics, Macroeconomics, Econometrics, International Economics, Financial Economics, Development Economics or any other applied areas in the field, we are particularly interested in applicants with an expertise in theoretical and applied economics. The potential candidate may be expected to teach foundational/introductory as well as advanced level courses.

Requirements and Responsibilities

Faculty responsibilities include but are not limited to teaching, advising students, participating in faculty colloquia, and academic administration. A Ph.D. (completed or nearing submission) is required at the time of application. Additionally, we expect that a successful applicant will:

1. Undertake independent high-quality research as well as work actively with existing members to build a strong interdisciplinary community of scholars who are committed to delivering cutting-edge research and innovation
2. Participate in curriculum development, student advising and service at department/school level. Experience in learning management systems (Blackboard, Moodle, etc) and advanced instructional technologies to improve both online and offline learning is highly desirable.
3. Demonstrated commitment to translate research findings into evidence-based practices, programs and policies
4. Sustained commitment to the principles of social justice, inclusion and diversity.

Application Process

Please apply through the FLAME University application portal located at:

<https://jobs.flame.edu.in/>

Review of applications will begin almost immediately and continue till the positions are filled. Post an initial screening, the Human Resources team will follow up with shortlisted candidates requesting them to submit published works, teaching and research statements and letters of reference.
