Teaching responsibilities include a lower-division course in macroeconomics and upper-division courses in intermediate macroeconomics and economics electives such as international economics and environmental economics. Candidates are also expected to engage in research in the economics field and mentor undergraduate research.

Westmont College is a national liberal arts college in the evangelical Protestant tradition, seeking faculty with a vital and informed commitment to the Christian faith. We continually aim to diversify the faculty and strongly encourage applications from historically underrepresented groups within economics and business for this position.
