This is an exciting opportunity to contribute to the teaching, postgraduate supervision, and administration requirements of the School/Division, maintain and develop original scholarship and research, and undertake professional/community/iwi service activities.

Are you passionate about research and teaching that leads to improvement in human performance and better, fairer health outcomes in Aotearoa, so that everyone thrives? Join a team that is committed to addressing health inequities and preventable diseases, with a particular focus on improving Māori and Pacific health outcomes.

Ngā kōrero mō te tūranga - About the role

This role involves contributing to the teaching, postgraduate supervision, and administration requirements of the School/Division, maintaining and developing original scholarship and research, and undertaking relevant professional/community/iwi service activities. You will prepare and deliver research-informed lectures and/or seminars, and conduct and/or coordinate tutorials, practical classes, demonstrations, or workshops.

You will supervise honours, graduate, and postgraduate students, including as a Supervisor for PhD students. You will maintain an active research programme, conduct quality research, and contribute to knowledge development through scholarship and publication. This includes involvement in research projects, attendance and presentation at academic conferences, and potentially leading a research team.

For more information about the Division of Health, please see our website.

The salary for a lecturer is in the range of $87,500 to $104,322, based on skills, knowledge, and experience. This is a full-time role (37.5 hours a week) based at our Hillcrest Campus.

For more information on the role, please see the position description. For a confidential conversation about the role, please contact Dr. Will Roberts, School of Sport and Human Movement, at will.roberts@waikato.ac.nz. All applications must be submitted through the online portal; emailed applications will not be accepted.

Ko wai koe? - Who are you?

You possess a PhD or Professional Doctorate in Sport Psychology or a relevant discipline. You thrive in a higher education environment, enjoying teaching and postgraduate supervision while maintaining and developing original scholarship and research. You can demonstrate successful tertiary-level
