Job Description

Barry University invites nominations and applications for the position of Dean for the School of Mental Health and Social Work. Reporting to the Executive Dean of the College of Health Professions and Medical Sciences, the Dean is a member of the Provost's Dean Council, a collaborative body of academic leaders committed to advancing the University's vision of excellence in teaching, research, and community engagement.

About Barry University

Founded in 1940 by the Adrian Dominican Sisters, Barry University is a dynamic, Catholic institution rooted in the liberal arts tradition and committed to the core values of knowledge and truth, inclusive community, social justice, and collaborative service. With a diverse student population drawn from over 80 countries, 45 U.S. states, and multiple territories, the University currently serves nearly 6,000 undergraduate and graduate students. Located just north of downtown Miami on a lush, 122-acre campus, Barry University is one of the largest Catholic universities in the Southeast. Across its eight colleges and schools, Barry offers more than 100 degree programs at the undergraduate, graduate, professional, and doctoral levels. The institution continues to serve as a model for inclusive, student-centered education with a growing commitment to health sciences and community partnerships.

The College of Health Professions and Medical Sciences

The College of Health Professions and Medical Sciences at Barry University responds to the ever-evolving landscape of healthcare through interdisciplinary and integrated educational experiences. The College includes the: - School of Nursing - School of Podiatric Medicine - School of Mental Health and Social Work - Department of Health Sciences and Clinical Practice - Master of Science in Physician Assistant Studies - Academy of Emergency Management Services. The College is also home to Barry Health Partners, a network of healthcare clinics and two podiatric residencies affiliated with regional healthcare systems. Additionally, the CARE Center (Counseling, Assessment, Research, and Education) offers services to underserved children and families, reinforcing Barry's community-focused mission. Through hands-on, interprofessional learning and faculty collaboration, the College equips students with the skills to thrive in today's complex healthcare environment. Students benefit from diverse clinical exposure, strategic industry partnerships, and a collaborative academic culture.

The School of Mental Health and Social Work is a newly integrated school under the College of Health Professions and Medical Sciences that include undergraduate and graduate programs in social work, and graduate programs in counseling, school psychology, and clinical psychology. The school of social work at Barry University was established in 1966 in response to the demand for social workers. It began offering the degree of Master of Social Work. From 1983-2001 it opened bachelor and doctoral degrees in social work. The programs in counseling and school counseling have been conferring degrees and placing professionals in these disciplines for over fifty years in local, national, and international communities. The graduate programs in clinical psychology are now integrated as part of the larger school to enhance stronger collaboration among the programs. This provides the student at the school expanded opportunities in academic offerings, clinical experiences, leading up to becoming health professionals ready to succeed in the healthcare ecosystem of mental health, wellness, and prevention. The founding dean will have an opportunity to develop and implement innovative programs that will prepare students across these disciplines to become health professionals to work in multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary settings.

Essential Functions

The Dean of the School of Mental Health and Social Work at Barry University reports directly to the Executive Dean for the College of Health Professions and Medical Sciences and is a member of the Provost's Deans Council. The Dean will be a leader, builder and innovator. The Dean will lead the expansion of all the programs under the school and build new programs to support the need of services in the areas of mental health. The founding Dean is a member of the faculty (rank commensurate with experience) who provides leadership and ensures the strategic planning, fiscal operations, accountability, and continuous improvement of new and current academic programs and services. The Dean is a relationship builder with internal and external partners; promotes student success and experience; engages in fundraising and works to increase enrollment and retention; professional development, faculty research, and other scholarly activities.

The Dean will have the opportunity to develop and implement innovative programs that prepare professionals to work in multidisciplinary healthcare settings. The programs under the School of Mental Health and Social Work will prepare students to meet state licensure requirements while also preparing them to serve the mental health needs across different healthcare settings and communities. The founding Dean is active in professional associations, businesses, and individuals who can engage in the local community to promote the school and its programs.
